

Feeding Guide for Chicks

1. Feeder Placement

- Day 1-2: Place near heat source
- Day 2+: Place away from heat source, near water

2. Introducing Food

- Sprinkle some of their food around the feeder
- Place chicks near the feeder and pretend to 'peck' at the food with your finger
- Ensure that all of your chicks know where to find the food
- Start introducing Grubbly snacks once they are familiar with their food. Feed in moderation, serve with chick grit.

3. As They Grow

- Adjust the height of the feeder so that it's at back level of your growing chicks
- Switch to a larger feeder that contains enough food to last 2 days

4. Chick Feed to Layer Feed

- Prepare to switch to a layer feed as of 18-20 weeks
- Start providing a supplemental calcium source at 20 weeks old like Grubbly and crushed oyster shells

5. Switching Foods

- Make the switch gradually to avoid digestive upset
- Slowly incorporate layer feed into your chick feed and increase the ratio over the course of a few weeks
- Switch from chick grit (0-20 weeks) to layer grit (20+ weeks)
- When molting, supplement feed with Grubbly for extra protein
